OUR BRANCH OF THE FAMILY TREE

A GENEALOGICAL HISTORY OF THE SCHOLL/SHULL FAMILY

BY ARTHUR E. SHULL

1973

This work is dedicated to my grand-daughters, Bambi R. Shull and Catherine A. (Shull) Shoemaker, whose requests for information and interest in their ancestors, promted me to produce this work.

Lacking the long and costly research necessary to even approach a complete family history, there will be many blanks and some errors.

All of the history of the Scholl/Shull Family preceding my grand-parents, Jacob and Susan (Cooper) Shull, which appears here, was obtained in the Department of Genealogy, Fort Wayne Public Library, from a family history that was edited and copyrighted in 1930 by John William Scholl, and published by the Grafton Press, New York.

Space does not permit mention of all the members of the family, that have contributed vital data by mail and in personal contacts, but to all those I express my sincere thanks, for this work is only as complete as their cooperation has made it.

The earliest record of the name is that of Johann Von Scholl, a crusader, who entered Jerusalem in the year 1096. The historian who records the event, states that the coat of armor of Johann Von Scholl was as follows: "On a gold Shield three reddish rectangular clods of earth, the crest consisted of a helmet argent with mantling and sable, surmounted by a wreath of the same and a knight, in court costume, sable and court hat sable trimmed, holding in the right hand a scythe (sickle) and in the left hand three ears (heads) of wheat".

Records of such antiquity are shadowy and may be questioned by critical historians. Whatever may have been the origin of this coat of arms, whether it dates from the Crusades or from some less remote time, it was certainly in use by Benedict Scholl, City Secretary of Boblingen, a city about ten miles Southwest of Stuttgart, in the first quarter of the seventeenth century.

There is little reason for substantial American Citizens to find cause for pride in being able to trace a thin line of descent, through an ever widening lineage, back to a pretentious and often corrupt European Nobility.

There will be no attempt to aggrandize or degrade anyone living or dead in this work.

Though historical records are imperfect and prevent us from following the stream of our common family life back to its source, still we knew perfectly well the region in which its ancient well-head or spring lies.

It is the middle and upper Rhine Valley from Cologne to Switzerland, from the Alsace to Bavaria, with the Rhine Palatinate and the Black Forest of Baden and Wurtemburg as the center.

Over this area are scattered great numbers of families of the Scholl name, not merely now, but throughout the past four or five centuries at least. It is from this reservoir that the constant stream of immigrants of this name has flown to America.

CAUSES OF THE IMMIGRATION

This History, dealing as it does, with the lives of men, who were carried here on the tide of the earliest continental immigration, to Colonial America, concerns only Protestants, chiefly Calvinists and Lutherans, but also adherents to sects like the Mennonites, Dunkers, etc.

A glance at the history of that region is needed to make comprehensible, why from that "garden of Europe", one of the most desirable habitations of the Old World, hundreds of thousands of the best people, almost within the period of a single human generation, migrated to the new lands of Pennsylvania.

It is especially of interest to us, whose first American ancestors were among those exiles, to know what they suffered in common with the masses of their fellow countrymen.

It is not intended to compress into a sketch like this, the whole of that frightful episode in world history.

The Rhine Valley has been the pathway of civilization in Europe and so the roadway of its greatest struggles. Hardly another region in the world has been subjected to so many destructive military campaigns.

This region was one of the earliest to revolt against the long and corrupt dominion of the Roman Church, the opinions of Calvin being more influential throughout than those of Luther. Accordingly the princes and people, of this devoted nursery of progress, became the objects of hatred and persecution by the Catholic princes and clergy, who held the theory that no man outside the Catholic Communion, had or could have any rights which anyone was bound to respect.

This led to the outbreak of the thirty years war (1618-1648). This first century of Reformation and Counter Reformation, with its confusions, led up to the great conflict which centered around pretensions of Rome to World - Dominion in matters of faith and religious practice if not also in matters purely secular.

These thirty years of spiritual and material suicide for the most of Europe began with an attempt to quench Protestantism in the Rhine Palatinate, and this land was subjected over and over again in the course of the war to the most brutal and thoroughgoing pillage by undisciplined hordes of mercenary troops recruited from all quarters of the earth and their still more numerous camp-followers who had to support themselves by requisitions on the lands through which they passed, extorted by the most horrible cruelties which the barbarians of all Europe could invent, by wholesale robbery of friend and foe alike.

The only thing that saved any living being from destruction was the habit of the peasants, taught by the school of experience, of fleeing from the armies at the rumor of their approach, taking a few movables and what cattle could be hastily driven away, and then returning to their burned and pillaged villages to eke out a wretched subsistence until the next campaign came that way.

Of the population it was found three fourths or more had perished or not having perished had fled to Switzerland, Holland and other countries never to return.

Our ancestors came to America as a substantial people, ruined and displaced by the ravages of a religious war.

It is little wonder that, a few decades later, when the constitution of the United States was adopted, our ancestors with thousands of their fellow countrymen, of similar background,insisted that it must provide for complete religious liberty and mandate the separation of church and state.

The journey from the Rhenish Palatinate and adjacent parts to this new world was no "picnic outing", as a trip crossing the ocean is regarded today, the ships were small and badly overcrowded, the food scanty and of poor quality, unfavorable winds could extend the duration of the crossing to from twelve to fourteen weeks.

Food and water often became unfit for human consumption, few small children survived the trip and there were usually several deaths among the adults.

Many of these immigrants settled in Maryland and Pennsylvania.

Here are men and women of all sorts, sound and worthy citizens, bearing their share in the worlds work in every field of endeavor, on the farm and in the workshop, in commercial and manufacturing enterprises and in the professions.

Men who have borne their part in military affairs, as privates or officers in every war of these United States since the Declaration of Independence.

Men and women who have borne the brunt of pioneering, developing and fashioning American life, moral, civil and political throughout its whole existence. It would be a miracle if such a family should escape an occasional "blot on the scutcheon". However in the research made to get material for this work I have not found a single member of the family with a criminal record.

* Philip Peter Scholl, Born in the Rhein Palatine region of Germany, about the year 1716, married in Europe, wifes name and vital data unknown.

Had a daughter Anna Susanna Dorothea and one son by first wife, who died early. Remarried about 1750 or earlier, Elizabeth Catherine, (maiden name and vital data unknown).

The family came to America shortly after this second marriage, the exact date is unknown.

There is no report of their entry at the Port of Philadelphia. However records show that he bought land in Berks County, Pennsylvania in 1751 and at one time owned a large three story mill, of stone construction and a residence in Maxatawny Township, Berks County, Pennsylvania.

* Anna Susanna Dorothea (Scholl) Scholl (1741) (1823) Kermerling's Church Cemetery, Friedensberg, Schuylkill County, Pennsylvania.

Her birthplace is stated on her gravestone as,"Baden- Weyerbach in Europe". That is a small place now known as Weirbach on the Nahe, not far from Coblentz.

No record of such family can be found there but may have been lost in the confusion of repeated wars.

* m (about 1772) John Peter Scholl (1738) (1814) Kermerling's Church Cemetery.

Historians disagree or are vague as to what blood relationship, if any, there was between this husband and wife of the same family name.

* Note: Names of persons from whom my grandfather, Jacob Shull, was a direct descendant.

They evidently were brought to America by their parents as children and married many years later.

Months	Days	Years

6	23	1880

Note: Year of Jacob Shull's birth erroniously recorded in publisned Shull History as 1812.

They removed to Ohio in 1806 and took up some government land near Canton. At that time the name was anglicised to Shull in the records and has been so retained in this branch.

He cleared his land and built a hotel twelve miles south of Canton, which served as a halfway house on a stage line and for many years the " Old Shull Tavern " stood as a landmark in the community, until it was destroyed by fire in the early 1900s.

He built his own saw-mill to make the lumber and the bricks were burned on the ground, which were used in the construction of this hotel, which was also their home.

Mrs. Shull was an invalid for many years and was cared for faithfully by her two eldest daughters, Mary and Elizabeth, the former a cripple. The latter received the homestead as a reward for her services. For a long time many family relics were preserved in the home.

(1) Jacob Shull (1811) (1880) Evergreen Cemetery, Auburn, Indiana
m (1842) Susan Cooper (1823) (About 1899). Evergreen Cemetery.

Jacob Shull, born in Canton, Ohio, came to Fort Wayne as a young man and worked as a carpenter.

He helped remove timbers from the old stockade, abandoned in 1819 by the military, and used them in the construction of some of the earlier business buildings in Fort Wayne,

About 1841 he traveled about twenty miles north of Fort Wayne, into DeKalb County and bought land, cleared what he could and built a log cabin.

Then he went back to Ohio and married grandmother. In the spring they returned to his land and since he had not had time to build a fireplace, tradition has passed on the story that Grandmother did her cooking beside a tree stump until fall, when the fireplace was built and everthing under roof before winter

Many years later he built a large house and like his father, ran the Shull Tavern and Halfway House on the stage line that operated between Fort Wayne and Angola.

Owners of the property in recent years, have reconditioned the house, maintaining the exterior in the original design. It may be seen on the West side of highway I-69 at the Auburn-St.Johns interchange, three miles South of Auburn.

IN CONCLUSION

Gathering the information and data to produce this work has been very informative and interesting, it has brought back many memories and was a pleasant experience.

Many contacts have been made, some with people I had not been in touch with for many years and some for the first time, their kindness and cooperation is greatly appreciated.

As time moves on its relentless course, marriages will be consummated, children will be born and death will take it's inevitable toll.

Records kept at the time of events are much easier to record with accuracy than information gathered from history. If you want to keep such a record, there is room for many more pages. A history is only complete untill the next event.

May it bring us all a little closer.

With kindest regards,

Arthur E. Shull

ADDENDUM

1976

Rumors and legends often stray far from historic fact and often historians, working in good faith, record conflicting stories.

I had been given too many stories about my great-grandfathers home and business, the Shull Tavern near Canton, Ohio, which operated as a way station on stage coach lines.

October 4, 1976, my wife Ethel, our son Robert, his wife Margaret and I drove to Paris, Ohio.

We soon came to the Israel's Evangelical Lutheran Church with its spacious church yard full of thin white slabs set vertically to memorialize their dead.

It seemed almost miraculous that Ethel found the Shull burial lot in a few minutes. One monument was inscribed H. Scholl and C. Scholl who were my Great-Grandparents, it is noteworthy that their children buried on this lot had the name Shull on their monuments.

Margaret went to a house near the South boundary of the churchyard where she was joined later by Ethel and Robert.

At this house they met Mrs. Barbara Wise and her son, who were very kind and helpful, when shown a picture of the old Shull Tavern, they said it was still standing and we had passed it about 3 miles west of Paris on Ohio, Highway 172.

We found Osnaburg was now named East Canton and the house in question was directly East of Canton and the statement that it was South of Canton was an error.

We found a good motel in East Canton and Ethel checked the telephone directory to find there was not a Shull or Scholl listed in it.

Morning, October 5, 1976 we drove to the house, which is 2.7 miles East of where U.S. 30 curves to the right and leaves Ohio Highway 172. The house is on the South side of the highway.

We first met Mrs. Patricia Welch who was very kind, courteous and helpful.

The frame portion, which can be seen at the back of the house in the picture received in 1908, had been separated from the brick or front portion, moved back about 200 to 300 feet and made into a single family dwelling facing on a different street.

An accidential fire in this portion after it was separated, did minor damage and no doubt started the rumor that all was destroyed. Mrs. Jolaine Beltz the tennant in the frame house was very kind and helpful and showed Robert and Margaret through the house.

The brick house was made into two apartments, Mrs. Welch who said she had lived in the lower apartment 10 years, showed us that portion of the house, the tennants in the upstairs apartment were not at home.

Modern wall paneling and ceiling materials had done much to make the apartment desirable. Robert said there were two furnaces in the basement one for each apartment. He also spoke of the huge timbers that supported the house. I looked down the cellar stairs from in the house and saw the wall or foundation that appeared to be field stones piled to slope from the base to the top, one smooth boulder was about 4 feet long and 2 feet thick how far it extended into the wall I could only guess, crude, yes, but it has supported a two story brick house for over 160 years.

The brick walls had been stuccoed and were showing some chipping and erosion from the weather.

Mrs. Welch kindly offered to go with us to the home of the present owners, Mr. & Mrs. Herbert L. Kiko, which was not far to go when we had someone to show us the way.

They gave us much information about the house. The chimney on the left in the picture has been removed as unsafe and not needed. They said they had covered up several fire places because they considered them unsafe and did not want anyone trying to build a fire in them.

Mrs. Kiko spoke of the uneven appearance of the roof, because the rafters that supported it were not sawed lumber but tall slender saplings cut from the woods and trimmed as smooth as could be done with an axe.

We had now contacted people in four households, none of whom were related to the Shulls, we came unannounced and interrupted their daily routine, yet every person we met was kind, courteous and helpful, that memory will stay with us always.

Mrs. Kiko told us she would get their abstract and have copies made of the pages that she thought would interest us. We have received those copies and now have indisputable facts as follows.

The house stands on the West ½, of the Northwest ¼, section 11, Township 18, (Osnaburg), Range 7, Stark County, Ohio. The Northwest ¼ of Section 11, was owned by Michael Reed, father of Catharine (Reed) Shull. Michael Reed proposed to give Henry Shull and wife Catharine, the above ¼ section of land, put them in possession of same and promised to execute a deed to them for said premises before his death. As a result of this verbal agreement Henry and Catharine Shull moved on said premises, held possession of same and made lasting improvements thereon. Said Michael Reed abour 1816 died without making a will and without executing a deed for the property.

Said Michael Reed owned a number of pieces of property that were promised to others of his nine children, under similar conditions, which resulted in so much confusion that after certain legal procedures the sheriff of Stark County, Ohio, was ordered to sell the properties at public vendue, January 3, 1820, and the above described quarter section of land was sold to Henry Shull for $800.00, he being the highest bidder.

It is quite obvious that if, my Great-Grandfather Henry Scholl, ever took up government land, it was not the land described above where the hotel is located.

This gives rise to the question when, where and under what condition was the family name anglicised from Scholl to Shull?

The story that the fire resulted in a total loss was a gross exaggeration.

Mr. & Mrs. Kiko are to be complimented on the excellent job they are doing in maintaining this landmark of a bygone Age, unlike a government subsidized national shrine it has to pay its own way. While time has cast its shadow over many of the details it is certainly over 160 years old.

ADDENDUM

1977 and 1978

In June, 1979 I visited my Grandfather in Fort Wayne for the purpose of compiling two more years of additions and changes to the Scholl/Shull Geneological History. Because of blindness and the declining condition of his health, my Grandfather has requested that I take over the recording of this data. I have been interested in this project from the very beginning and feel happy to continue his work. My Grandfather so dearly enjoys the letters he receives from the family, I would ask that you still write to him with changes and additions to the history. I do not wish to deny him the pleasure of hearing from all of you. He will pass the pertinent facts along to me for recording.

If there are any questions or requests for additional copies of the history, you may contact me at the following address:

We sincerely appreciate the help of those who keep us informed of new family developments and who correct the inevitable errors. If we continue to be diligent in our documentation of history, the evolution of Scholl/Shull descendants will be preserved in writing for many years to come. Thank you all for your cooperation!

With warm regards,

Catherine Shull Shoemaker
